WEEK 1	Starting off right Firstly, you can do this! 13.1 miles is a long way, but have faith in yourself and the journey you are about to go on – and this plan! Regular running will develop the stamina and strength you need to run a successful half marathon. LET'S GO!	Session 1 10 min walk; 4 min easy run, 1 min walk x 4; 10 min walk (40 min total)	Listen The Start Line Podcast Hosted by Dee, Jules and Petrina: three sisters talking about running, eating, music, life... and everything in between.	Session 2 5 min easy run, 5 min walk x 3 (30 min total)	Pride in London Find out more about the team of volunteers working hard to make Pride London (29 June) the UK's biggest and most diverse Pride. Everything they do is designed to give LGBT+ people a platform to be visible and speak loudly to the rest of the city about what matters to them.	Session 3 10 min easy run, 2 min walk x 4 (48 min total)	The good news? There's no training today! Sit back, relax (if you can!), reflect on your success and look forward to the week ahead. These Sundays are a chance to rest, and plan your fundraising! First up, create your fundraising page with Enthuse, our official fundraising partner.
WEEK 2	Fuelling your body Here are our top three foods to help aid your recovery and rebuild and repair those muscles after every run: 1. Watercress Not just garnish – watercress is an established big-hitter for recovery and damage limitation. The peppery leaves contain hefty amounts of iron, vitamin C and calcium and are a great way to liven up a salad. Eat: Whenever you can 2. Alcohol-free beer Contains powerful antioxidant phenols: a German study showed runners who were given non-alcoholic beer for three weeks before the Munich Marathon suffered less inflammation afterwards than a placebo group – and probably fewer headaches too! Drink: Erdinger Alkoholfrei 3. Apples Among many good things, apples contain quercetin, an anti-inflammatory antioxidant. Eat: Like they say, an apple a day	Session 1 10 min walk; 2 min easy run, 1 min walk x 10; 5 min easy run; 5 min run (50 min total)	Listen The Run Wave A safe place for runners to discuss what's on their mind, vent about things going on within the running community, and just a place where runners can be themselves and have a great time.	Session 2 10 min easy walk; 1 min steady run, 2 min walk x 6; 5 min easy walk (33 min total)	London's best running routes The Big Half is a celebration of our capital – if you live in the city and want to get to know it better while training, take a look at Lonely Planet's seven best running routes for inspiration.	Session 3 5 min walk; 20 min easy run; 3 min walk; 20 min easy run; 5 min walk (53 min total)	Involve colleagues. Add your fundraising link to your email signature, or put it on the work noticeboard, to spread the word with your colleagues.
WEEK 3	Training in summer While training during the summer months means longer days and (hopefully) less wind, rain and mud to contend with, it can be tricky if the temperatures start hotting up! Visit our website to read our top five tips for running in the heat.	Session 1 10 min walk; 4 min easy run, 1 min walk x 4; 10 min walk (40 min total)	Listen Rich Roll podcast Ultra-endurance athlete Rich Roll delves deep into all things wellness, with some of the brightest and most forward-thinking, paradigm-busting minds in health, fitness, nutrition, art, entertainment, entrepreneurship, and spirituality. WEEK 4	Three tips for a good night's sleep 1. Turn your screens off an hour before bed: the blue light emitted from your devices can interfere with your circadian rhythm. 2. Give yourself a three-hour gap between your last meal and your bedtime. A settled stomach can help you relax and get into that sleepy state sooner. 3. Avoid caffeine after midday. Caffeine raises your heart rate and can stay in your system for up to seven hours.	Session 1 10 min easy run; 4 min steady run, 1 min walk x 6; 10 min easy run (50 min total)	Listen To My Sisters Courtney Daniella Boateng and Renee Kapuku's mission is to see women win. You could hold a raffle at the same time too!
WEEK 5	Have fun with Fartlek! At the halfway point in the plan, you may want to bring some variety to your schedule. Fartlek training makes a great alternative to road running. The word 'Fartlek' comes from the Swedish meaning 'speed play' – find out how to have some Fartlek fun on your runs on our website.	Session 1 30 min easy run	Listen The Disabled Debrief Conscious Being Magazine is written for and by disabled women and non-binary people – and its podcast covers subjects such as privilege, chronic illness in the workplace, disability in sports and more!	Session 2 15 min easy run, 1 min walk x 3 (48 min total)	Women's Running Diversity and inclusion is at the heart of monthly magazine Women's Running and each cover star is representative of diverse ethnicity, body types and abilities.	Session 3 90 mins of easy running (walk as and when you need to but try to stay on your feet for 90 min)	Sponsor a mile. Make it easy for people to donate: share your fundraising page and ask them to sponsor you an amount per mile.

The Black Unity Bike Ride (BUBR) on Saturday 3 August kicks off at Leyton Sports Ground in east London and finishes at the new BUBR Fest in south London.	Session 3 1 mile run with a min walk x 8 (approx 98 min total if you run a mile in 10 minutes)	Share your progress. Post an update and photo from one of your training runs on your fundraising page and share it on social media and via email.
WEEK 7	How to deal with injury 1. It's OK to be upset or angry about not being able to run. Let those initial emotions out, don't bottle them up or they will build. 2. You can't run right now, but that doesn't mean you're not an athlete. Use this time to focus on your diet, improve flexibility and work on a better sleep routine. 3. Don't rush back. You can end up doing yourself more damage. Take your time and trust the process!	Session 1 10 min walk; 4 min easy run, 1 min walk x 4; 10 min walk (40 min total)	Listen Power Hour with Adrienne Herbert What could you do if you dedicated just one hour each day to improving yourself and your life? Host Adrienne Herbert explores this idea by speaking to today's leading coaches, creatives, change-makers and innovators, finding out about their routines, habits, and rules to live by.	Session 2 5 min easy run, 5 min walk x 3 (40 min total)	so informed We think you'll love this social media platform that dissects progressive politics and social issues – it's a great educational resource to generate discourse!	Session 3 10 mile run (walk as and when you need to but aim to cover 10 miles)	Film night How about a change of pace with a relaxed film night at home? WEEK 8	Three steps to fundraising 1. Set up your fundraising page with our official fundraising partner, Enthuse, now – there's no time like the present! 2. Set your target – make sure you set a fundraising goal for all potential donors to see. It will give you something to aim for too! 3. Personalise your page – this is your opportunity to share your story. Let people know why you're running and give them a reason to donate.	Session 1 40 min steady run	Listen Run Things Great inspiration for all runners (and those aspiring to run), Kev and Clare host this mental-health focused podcast all about participation, fun, interaction and support. Felix's Kitchen makes meals from surplus food and delivers them for free in east London, where almost half of children live in poverty. Find out how you can help.	Session 3 12 mile run (walk as and when you need to but aim to cover 12 miles to give you the confidence that you can cover the distance on Event Day)	Consider fancy dress. Everyone loves fancy dress! Plan an outfit and then consider auctioning the choice of your event running gear to the highest donor. Make sure you've practised running in your outfit before Event Day.
WEEK 9	Understanding tapering It may feel counter-productive, but slowing down, prioritising rest, and reducing your mileage in the last couple of weeks before Event Day is exactly what your body needs to perform at its very best. So trust your training – you won't gain any extra fitness in these last couple of weeks. Rest up and make sure you're itching to go next week.	Session 1 30 min easy run	Listen Well Far: the Running Podcast Well Far aims to help you to go the distance – check out the Miles and Your Menstrual Cycle Episode to discover the link between periods and performance.	Session 2 40 min steady run	Dose of Society For a fresh perspective on the news, check out @doseofsociety. They're a social media team that shines the lights on the stories that matter, but that you may not hear about from other outlets.	Session 3 60 min easy paced run	One final push! A huge well done for completing week 9 of your Training Plan. Now it's time for one final fundraising push as you prepare for Event Day next Sunday.
WEEK 10	Preparing for Event Day You've made it to week 10 – congratulations! You've done the hard work and now all that's left is to go out and run 13.1 miles. But before you do that, make sure you've read your Event Guide, which we will email to you. It includes everything you need to know to ensure your day runs smoothly.	Session 1 30 min easy run	Listen A Runner's Life – Marcus Brown Be inspired by accomplished marathoner Marcus Brown as he and his guests tackle the topics around training that impact our daily lives.	Session 2 20 min easy run	Transforming Lives We've collaborated with The Running Charity on this year's finisher T-shirt and medal. Visit the charity's website to find out more about how they combine running with skilled youth work and vital community services.	Rest day You're nearly there! You've done all the hard work so now you can relax and reflect on how far you've come in the last 10 weeks. Tomorrow is a big day – make sure you eat well and get to bed early, so you're ready to take on 13.1 miles!	THE BIG HALF EVENT DAY! The good news? Today is The Big Half Event Day! The even better news? You're going to smash it! See you at the Start!
